Sub: Ensuring availability of teachers of all subjects to improve the academic performance of students - reg

All EMRSs are in the crucial period of the academic session 2024-25. Only two and a half months are left out for the board examination. It is the duty of all of us to focus on improving the standard of the students. This is the period by which support needy students are to be concentrated so that they perform with confidence in the ensuing examinations. Being residential schools, students may seek the support of teachers 24*7 to clear the doubts. You are requested to take a leadership role to overcome the issues being faced by the students. Proper counselling of the students at this moment is very essential. This may be achieved by all the practicing teachers who may focus during classroom interaction as well as outside the classroom also.

It is reported to this office by various stakeholders that in a few EMRSs, posts of subject teachers are still vacant and teachers are not available even to complete the syllabus. NESTS had already permitted to engage guest teachers against the vacancies so that academic activities are not affected. If subject teachers are not available, you are permitted to engage guest teachers at your level to ensure that the syllabus is completed, assessment is made and proper guidance is given to the students towards academic achievement.

Frequent interactions with the students will ease the tension among the students. On the basis of the performances, in revision examinations, students are to be guided in a threat free atmosphere.

All genuine efforts are to be made to prepare the students to face not only the board examinations but also other competitive examinations for admissions in professional colleges.

This issues with the approval of the Competent Authority.
